The Spring feeder cattle sale is April 11. Only the first 1700 head consigned will be accepted. If you are interested in marketing through this special sale get your nominations in this week. We have the proper forms.

Calves should be vaccinated with Blackleg and Malignant Edema only. In prior sales Shipping Fever vaccination had been required. This is no longer true.

If you are wondering which vegetable varieties to select for 1974, pick up a copy of Publication 44, Vegetable Gardening in Virginia.

If you are planning to do some fencing, use galvanized "threaded" nails instead of common nails to fasten fence planking to preservati v e-treated posts.

Remember the function of fencing is confinement, therefore all fencing, wire or planks should be placed on the animal side of the posts.

In 1974 we exported 16.5 million tons of phosphate materials. This compares with 12.7 million tons in 1970. This is part of the reason for increased fertilizer prices.

Also all fertilizer usage in the U. S. is up 27.5% over 1967.

Combine export sales, domestic sales and throw in a little inflation you see why fertilizer continues to rise in cost.

The Appomattox Pork Producers held a regular planning meeting on last Tuesday evening. Plans for this years Junior Market Hog Show were made and a years calendar of events were finalized. Training Sessions for the FFA and 4-H Clubs have been planned for this spring.

The Board of Directors of the Piedmont Pork Producers meet in Keysville on Thursday and finalized plans for their annual meeting. The meeting will be held on March 21 at 7:00 p.m. at the Hotel Weyanoke in Farmville. The Board also agreed to hold their second Crossbred Gilt Sale at Farmville Livestock Market on April 11 at 7:00 p.m. This sale will be co-sponsored with the South Central Feeder Pig Association. The Crossbred Gilt Sale is just another one of the continuing efforts to improve the quality of pigs and hogs produced in our area.

Next week Henry Wood of Buckingham County and president of the Piedmont Pork Producers will represent Virginia in the Pork All American Contest at the American Pork Congress which meets next week in Des Moines, Iowa. We want to wish Henry the best of luck.

The Hog-Corn ratio for the week at Richmond was 12.04 - lowest in many years.

The next Piedmont Pork Producers Market Hog Tele-Auction will take place this Monday, March 4th. If you have hogs to market we recommend that you market them though this sale. The prices received are consistantly with as above Peoria Prices. Give it a try and we feel you will return again.

Cause For Soil Erosion

Farmers who are converting grass or idle land to corn and soybeans may be causing excessive soil erosion. "Some farmers may lose more than an inch of soil every three years by growing corn on some of the more sloping land," says Bob McClenny, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation service at Appomattox.

These lands are being changed from other uses and brought into cultivation to meet the increased demand for food and fiber.

Soil losses will be about 20 tons per acre per year from corn and soybeans grown with conventional cultivation on a four percent slope 300 feet long. "This amounts to losing an inch of top soil every eight years." "If the slope is 12 percent, soil losses increase to 60 tons per acre per year or over an inch of top soil every three years," McClenny reports. This much sediment can create many problems downstream. Then it becomes more than the farmer's problem.

By doing some early planning, a farmer may be able to keep soil losses down to an acceptable level and at the same time increase both short and long term returns from his land.

Lands least subject to erosion should be considered for use first. If some of the more sloping lands are selected for cultivation, conservation measures are necessary to reduce erosion. By using no-till farming, soil losses can be reduced to one ton per acre on four percent slopes and about five tons on 12 percent slopes.

This is losing an inch of soil every 50 to 100 years. "We can live with this and keep our soil productive indefinitely," says McClenny. Other conservation measures may be necessary where no-till farming is not or cannot be used.

Technical assistance is available from the Soil Conservation Service through the Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District.
